

#ThinkABILITY

SOPHIA ROSAMANO

My name is Sophia Rosamano, and I was born and raised in New Orleans. I am a recent transfer student from Delgado Community College, attending the University of New Orleans, majoring in Music.

At the age of 12, I joined the New Orleans Children's Choir. In High School, I joined the Chalmette High School Chorus called CHS Voices. My passion for singing helped me choose my educational and career path.

I was born with a condition called Cerebral Palsy, which is a congenital disorder that affects muscle movement and muscle coordination. With advancements in technology and medicine, I am able to live a full and productive life. I recently restarted Physical Therapy, and it has done wonders for my body.

My passion for singing helped me choose my educational and career paths.

When I am not focusing on my studies and music, you can find me hanging around with family and friends.

My goal in life is to be happy, healthy, live on my own, and be successful. I truly believe that believing in yourself goes a long way, but having a strong support system is just as important.
